

Christopher Ferland, PhD

Assistant VP of the Office of Institutional Research – Georgia College and State University

Co-Author of Institutional Strategic Planning: Aligning Strategy with Mission and Goals in Organization and Administration in Higher Education – 3rd Edition

Christopher Ferland is the assistant vice president of the Office of Institutional Research at Georgia College and State University. He serves as co-facilitator of the strategic plan and a member of the enrollment management team. He is the current president of the University System of Georgia Institutional Research and Planning advisory committee.

He was previously a senior research associate for the University System of Georgia. He has also held the position of associate director of enrollment management at the University of Georgia.

Ferland received his Ph.D. in higher education at the University of Georgia; a Master of Science in applied economics and a Master of Science in applied sociology from Clemson University; and his Bachelor of Arts in sociology from the University of Rhode Island.

